IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear husband, Daddy and Granddaddy, Tandy Douglas Harris, who passed away one year ago, September 23, 1962.
One year has passed
Since he has been here alone,
And we miss him more and more,
Oh, how sad is our home.
God gave and He has taken away
Some day we will understand why.
A vacant place is in our home,
Since we loved is still.
His sweet memory helps us to live
I think of you in silence,
Your name I often call;
There is nothing left to answer,
But your picture on the wall.
Sadly missed by Wife, Children, and Grandchildren 9-26-1p

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear Daddy and Granddaddy, A. B. Ferguson, who passed away eleven years ago today, September 29, 1952. Eleven long and lonely years ago today.
To rest in the arms of Jesus.
We will never forget that day.
Some think we have forgotten you,
When they see us smile;
But they little know the sorrow
That we suffer all the while
A few have seen us weep
But the way our hearts ache
For you, dear Daddy, and Granddaddy we wish
You were here to guide us along
The way, as you always did.
All we can do now, dear DADDY AND Granddaddy
Is remember the lessons you taught us and try to follow you
For we know you are safe with Jesus where no arms can reach you and waiting to greet us when we get there.
Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren 9-26-1p

In memory of Mrs. Clarence Drinkard who passed away nine years ago, September 17, 1954.
Gone is the face we love to see,
Silent is the voice we love to hear.
To far away for eye to see.
But not too far for thoughts to reach.
We miss you so much and will always treasure the memories of the happy times we had together.
Sadly, Husband and Children 9-26-1t

(In Memory of Courtney H. Winters, who passed away one year ago September 25th.)
The dearest one in all the world
Has gone away to stay.
A broken heart is all we have
Since he was called away.
Death leaves a heartache none can heal,
His weary hours, his days of pain
His weary nights are past;
His very patient worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home— to suffer no more.
Sadly missed by Wife and Daughters. 2-26-1p

Cover Girl For '64

Jane A Williams, 17, of Pamplin, and a rising senior at AHS, was chosen from among the many beauties on Virginia Beach to pose for next year's Virginia Beach Guide. She is standing with a lifeguard, Bobby Simpson, in front of the Princess Ann Motel. Her suit is white with a pink top covered by white lace. Jane was part of a vacationing group from Appomattox when a photographer approached her on the beach to explain his search for a cover girl for the brochure. "Will your success as a model change your ideas for a career?", somebody asked. Jane smiled and said. "No." She still plans to be a nurse. She is the daughter of Mrs. Alvis Williams, of Pamplin.

Feeder Pig Sale Halifax, Oct. 17

Officials of the Southside Feeder Pig Sale have set their next sale for October 17 at the Farm Bureau Market in Halifax This organization consists of pig producers in Halifax, Charlotte, Mecklenburg, Pittsylvania, Lunenburg, and Appomattox Counties who have gone together to sell larger groups of pigs. The pigs meet all health requirements for interstate shipment, graded and sold in uniform lots. W. L. Brankley, of Clarksville, is sale manager and head of the group.

This will be the fourth in their series of bi - monthly sales sponsored by the group. Any producers who wish to sell pigs with the group should contact their county agent for information and nomination forms.

The pigs must be produced on the farm of the consignor and nominated for sale prior to sale date. All pigs are required to be vaccinated by a licensed veterinarian for Cholera and Erysipelas twenty - one days prior to sale date.

This cooperative type sale provides small producers a means of selling all their pigs on one day at the prevailing market price. The larger the number of pigs offered, the more buying power attracted. The pigs are sold and unloaded individually and has been so graded as to state that many state selling their pigs in addition to buyers lunch away.

Although, relatively state feeder pig sale ly found at fourten 1962, 34,406 pigs were Virginia sales for a price per head of was a 62 per cent the number sold in year.

September

SEPTEMBER has been a fateful month in the recent history of the U. On the first day of this month, 1939, Germany invaded Poland. That the beginning of World War II. The third of September, Great Britain and France declared war on Germany and it was not until May 8th, 1945, after many other countries had been drawn into the conflict, that Germany finally surrendered.

Then the United States, which entered the war in 1941, after being attacked by Japan and after Hitler declared war on this country on December 11th, 1941, the total battle deaths were 291,557. Of course, the greatest number of deaths occurred in Russia, which Hitler invaded in June of 1941, and estimates run all the way up to 10,000,000 persons —as the number of dead in Russia.

On September 13th, one hundred years ago, General John J. (Black Jack) Pershing was born in Laclede, Missouri. Pershing was destined to lead the American army in France in World War I.

Back in 1927, the same year in which Lindberg flew the Atlantic in May, Babe Ruth hit his sixtieth home run of the season. That established an all-time record.

And so September, which is the month in which school begins all over the country and the month in which autumn arrives is also bringing cooler weather and football fever.

This Is The Town You Made

ou have lived here more than a ar or two, this is the town you

ns are only one thing:
people living in them.
that means you.
other people built the town we
into or moved into.
at that time, those other peoould be blamed for what we did
about that town, or given credit
at we did like about it.
n't say "they" are to blame if something about the town we
ke. Nor can we say "they" get edit if there is something about w we do like.

This Is The Town You Made

This applies to all of us.

Not just the presidents of civic clubs, or members of the city council or other civic groups. Those people are merely elected representatives—elected by you and me. We put them there. So we share their credit or blame.

And that's true even if you never voted once in your life.

Because by not voting, you changed the vote total.

This town is yours.

If you didn't make it the way it is, who did?

No, somebody here made it the way it was when you came.

And you made it the way it is.

The '64s from Ford are here: The Year of the Test Drive starts today!

Ford cars have changed. Only a test drive can tell you how much. Races and rallies, economy runs, braking and acceleration tests have proved into our 1964 models the kind of total performance you just can't create on the test track alone. They are hard-muscled, fast-moving, sure-footed. Open competition helped make them that way. They offer you substantially more car than anything at their price. You don't have to take our word for it. We're willing to rest our case on our cars.

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

Pastor Speaks

Lesson for September 29, 1963

Life Of Faith

Bible Material: Genesis: Psalm 105:1-24; Galations 3; Hebrews 11:1-22.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 105: 1-11.

"Faith" is despised by people who don't have it and don't understand it. Faith is caricatured as an attitude of ignorance. It is compared to taking a chance or going on an errand that is bound to fail. Faith is said (by people who have none) to be like a man buying medicines and swallowing them without looking at the labels or reading the directions. Faith has been compared to a blind man going down into the cellar at midnight, without a light, looking for a black cat that isn't there.

Nobody who has long lived the life of faith is bothered by such misunderstandings. For one thing, he knows very well that the man who tells you he believes only what you can see personally test, you will have an unhappy time of it. Suppose you try eating breakfast without faith some morning. The label on the cereal box says it has riboflavin and vitamin B and a lot of other things. Do you know that none of these is poisonous? Do you know they're all there? You know nothing of the sort; you believe it. You go to the hospital for an operation; do you know the surgeon's hand won't slip? No, but you trust yourself to him all the same. There can't be any more certainty than the certainty of faith, in most circumstances of life.

The men whose lives have been briefly before us in these past few weeks, Abraham, Jacob and Joseph, knew what the uncertainties of faith can be. Abraham went "not knowing whither he went." Jacob had no assurance that his God would prosper him. He hoped so, to be sure; but to the end of his days there were question marks in his future. So with Joseph; for long years, though the word is not written, there is no record of him, the fact of his faith is there. If Joseph had yielded to the tyranny of the obvious, he would have stayed a slave. He lived by what he did not see.

Did you ever fly, as a passenger, in a little plane just big enough for two? Just for a joke, while you were fastening your seat belt, you may have sung a verse or two of "Dig my grave with a silver spade." But you buckled that belt and up you rose into the scary sky. Now you believed in a lot of things. You believed the engine would not "conk out," you believed the wings were fastened with something stronger than glue, you believed the tail assembly would hang together, that the direction-finder and the altimeter and the doneer or so other gadgets on the instrument board were accurate, you believed in all the radio control towers and beacons you overflew; but when you really come right down to it, what you really put faith in was not a what, it was a who. You trusted the pilot. You (not being a pilot, and not used to flying perhaps) could not predict what he would do next. If you never studied aerodynamics, the chances are that you didn't even know exactly how the plane stays aloft. You certainly could not read the inside of the pilot's mind. But you trusted him all the same.

You see there are a lot of things to trust in even a small airplane. But you don't really trust the things, but the pilot, a person. You trust him (among other things) to check everything about the plane, you put your faith in his knowledge and in his skills. If you couldn't trust him, you couldn't very well trust the plane.

The life of faith in God is like that. There are many things we have to believe in, on our flight through this life. But essentially, religious faith is faith in a person, our Father in heaven. We can't see what He is doing, we can't understand all He does even when we see Him do it, we don't know why this or that happens. There's a great deal more that we don't know than we do know. But we trust Him. The great difference between God and any airline pilot is that even the boldest and most skillful pilots know there are kinds of clouds they dare not enter, weather conditions they cannot control. The best of them can be grounded. But the true God is never grounded, for no cloud is too dark and storm-swept for Him.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

WHAT A WASTE!

A young woman vacationing with friends came upon one of these few remaining "covered bridges," commented, "why such a waste?" There is enough lumber in the canopy alone to build a bungalow. Why did people waste lumber like that?" Someone replied, "to save human resources." These bridges were built to protect those traveling over them, and to preserve the lumber from the weather."

That same woman probably stopped at a roadside restaurant and ordered twice as much food as she ate and thought nothing of it.

A friend told me one time that he raised a pen full of hogs from the garbage thrown out by a nearby hotel.

We must remember that it is not money value every time that is most important, but human value. Jesus said, "what if a man gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Some say, what a waste to build large, commodious, expensive and well - equipped churches to use only once a week. Judas said of the woman who broke the alabaster box and anointed the body of Jesus, "why this waste? It could have been sold and given to the poor (put in his own money bag)." But Jesus replied, "Let her alone, she hath done what she could!"

Waste to some are resources to others. With pride recently, I took some leftover pieces of lumber, and with guidance built two study tables. The purpose was to provide study table for the children in school.

Our source of values come into focus when we make judgments about life. Where do we get out scale of values? Well, they come from a trillion sources, I suppose, but the best one I know is to be found in Christ. He puts value where it belongs— upon the soul and life qualities. All people should exist for that purpose.

Therefore we should weigh values in the light of saving souls and life. Some of the best sources we have for the formation of the Bible as we know it, came from the "waste baskets" in the monasteries of the ancient world. These monks had no sense of value, and it was only after the archeologists and research scientists found these "proms" did the monks get suspicious and charged large sums of money for them, or would not dispose of them at all.

What many feel to be a waste of time, may be the very "stuff" out of which life holds together. The Church of our Lord is one of these "waste baskets" many have used.

In the light of the fact that we have the largest church membership in the history of our world, we also have the greatest "falling away". What is good, necessary, and important have been cast off as "waste."

The waste basket has caught some of the most precious things we have in our world. Pick up in your attitude TO, and support OF your church. It is the Divine Center for testing values in a modern world.
